Microsoft Corp. (Still free Windows 10! Sort of - DY)
"Windows 10 free upgrade for customers who use assistive technologies
For the general public, the free upgrade offer for Windows 10 ends on July 29. However, if you use assistive technologies, you can still get the free upgrade offer even after the general public deadline expires as Microsoft continues our efforts to improve the Windows 10 experience for people who use these technologies.

With the Windows 10 Anniversary Update, we've taken a number of steps to improve the accessibility of Windows 10. To learn more, read our blog that details some of these improvements.

Before you upgrade, please check with your assistive technology provider(s) to learn more about their software compatibility with Windows 10.

If you want Windows 10 now and are ready to take advantage of the free upgrade offer, select the link below to get started.

When does the free upgrade offer extension end?
We have not announced an end date of the free upgrade offer for customers using assistive technology. We will make a public announcement prior to ending the offer.

Why should I upgrade to Windows 10?
Windows 10 offers experiences that are familiar, safer and more secure, and more personal and productive – enabling innovative new experiences. With the Windows 10 Anniversary Update, even more features and improvements in accessibility are available.

What assistive technologies are eligible for the extension?
We are not restricting the free upgrade offer to specific assistive technologies. If you use assistive technology on Windows, you are eligible for the free upgrade offer.

I'm planning on purchasing a third-party AT that I had not needed previously. Will the upgrade extension still be valid?
Yes. If you require assistive technology on Windows, you are eligible for the free upgrade offer.

Where can I get assistance on the upgrade if I have issues?
Contact the Microsoft Disability Answer Desk if you have problems with the upgrade.
https://support.microsoft.com/answerdesk/accessibility

"The general public deadline to get Windows 10 has passed and if you want to upgrade now, it'll cost you $129. However, if you are reliant on assistive technologies like screen readers, and have to wait for those to be upgraded, Microsoft will give you some extra time to upgrade at no cost. Microsoft will update the OS two or three times a year from now on. The first big update is coming next week on August 2nd." http://techguylabs.com/episodes/1312

You can still get Windows 10 for free with this trick
Microsoft's free upgrade offer for Windows 10 ended last week, or did it? The software giant has introduced a ''free upgrade offer extension'' for Windows 7 and Windows 8.1 users who use assistive technologies. While, technically, the free upgrade offer for the general public has ended, Microsoft has introduced a loophole with this extension that lets anyone get Windows 10 for free.

''Microsoft isn't checking who is using the upgrade extension''

All you need to do is download an EXE file from Microsoft's hidden away accessibility site, and the Windows 10 upgrade will commence without any checks. Microsoft says it has not announced an end date for the upgrade extension, and the company will make a public announcement when it plans to remove the free Windows 10 upgrade for assistive technology users.

Microsoft is now planning to distribute a free Anniversary Update to Windows 10 tomorrow. The software update will include Cortana improvements, Windows Ink, Microsoft Edge extensions, and a lot more tweaks and new features. Existing Windows 10 users will start receiving the update automatically from Windows Update tomorrow morning. You can check out the best new features of the Windows 10 Anniversary Update right here.

10 compelling reasons to upgrade to Windows 10 Brad Chacos @BradChacos Jul 15, 2016 3:00 AM
http://www.pcworld.com/article/3093793/windows/10-compelling-reasons-to-upgrade-to-windows-10.html "An offer you shouldn't refuse
   The deadline cometh. July 29 looms, and after that, Windows 7 and 8 users will no longer be able to upgrade to Windows 10 for free. If you've been waiting for Microsoft to polish out the operating system's initial bugs, it's time to make the leap."

"This article's more for the fence-sitters—the folks who haven't decided whether to stick with what they know or embrace Microsoft's new-school operating system. There are some very valid reasons not to upgrade to Windows 10, to be honest. But Windows 10 is the best Windows yet, and most people should claim the free upgrade while there's still time.
   Here's why." http://www.pcworld.com/article/3093793/windows/10-compelling-reasons-to-upgrade-to-windows-10.html 12 web pages all the way to: http://www.pcworld.com/article/3093793/windows/10-compelling-reasons-to-upgrade-to-windows-10.html#slide12

"Assistive Technology Users Free Upgrade Still Available for Windows 10
http://windowsitpro.com/windows-10/assistive-technology-users-free-upgrade-still-available-windows-10
Sep 14, 2016 Richard Hay (Go to his web links on above original story for more info. DY)
Microsoft ended their year long free Windows 10 upgrade program for consumer customers on 29 July 2016 just prior to the release of the Windows 10 Anniversary Update in early August.

There is however, one group of customers that still have access to that free Windows 10 upgrade. If someone is on Windows 7 or 8.1 and they use Assistive Technologies then the upgrade is still accessible.

You can see a list of some of the Assistive Technologies that third party companies make for Windows here.

Microsoft has added significant accessibility related updates in Windows 10 and the recently released Anniversary Update so an upgrade can bring additional features to those who use Assistive Technologies. https://blogs.msdn.microsoft.com/accessibility/2016/07/01/making-progress-on-accessibility-with-the-windows-10-anniversary-update/

If you are working with customers that are dependent on these technologies and an upgrade to Windows 10 makes sense then you can upgrade them by visiting the Windows 10 free upgrade for customers who use assistive technologies page and begin the download and upgrade process. https://www.microsoft.com/en-us/accessibility/windows10upgrade

According to Microsoft there is no current end date for this offer and the upgrade is not dependent on any specific Assistive Technology as all of them are eligible for this free Windows 10 upgrade offer.

But, wait...there's probably more so be sure to follow me on Twitter and Google+.”

HOW TO USE SYSTEM RESTORE IN WINDOWS 7, 8, AND 10

System Restore is a Windows feature that can help fix certain types of crashes and other computer problems. Here's how it works, how to set it up, and how to use it when things go awry.

We're going to be using Windows 10 in this article, but System Restore has been around a long time–and works pretty much the same way in each version of Windows. The instructions here are good for Windows 7, 8, and 10, and you'll encounter only minor differences throughout the process.

What is System Restore?
When something goes wrong on your system as a result of a bad piece of software–maybe an app you installed, or a driver that broke something important–it can be hard to fix. System Restore lets you restore your Windows installation back to its last working state.
It does this by creating "restore points" every so often.

Go to this 'How to Geek' Website for a complete explanation and step by step for System Restore. http://bit.ly/2dBvFb7JTT http://www.howtogeek.com/howto/windows-vista/using-windows-vista-system-restore/

WINDOWS 10 ANNIVERSARY UPDATE – This is a huge update that touches every corner of the operating system. You don't need to do anything to get the update. Windows 10 automatically scans for, downloads and installs new updates on your device (though the Anniversary Update will require a restart). But if you wait for Windows Update to automatically update your device, you may not get the update right away — the Anniversary Update is being rolled out slowly, which means it won't immediately be available to all users. It includes many, many more changes than the November update did. How-to-Geek has an overview of many of the changes. Read the article at: http://bit.ly/2as7Go4 or http://www.howtogeek.com/248177/whats-new-in-windows-10s-anniversary-update/

ONE YEAR LATER: DID MICROSOFT LISTEN TO WINDOWS 10 COMPLAINTS? – A year into Windows 10, with a new update on the way, we ask: Did Microsoft listen to the complaints?

After all, Windows 10 is supposed to be "the last version of Windows." It's "Windows as a service," continually updated and fixed by developers who are listening to Windows users and improving things. That's the promise, anyway. We've been using the Windows 10 Anniversary Update for a while now, so let's see what complaints Microsoft has succeeded (and failed) to deliver on.

MICROSOFT MAKES WINDOWS 10 HARDWARE CHANGE FOR PC SECURITY – Starting on July 28, Microsoft is making TPM 2.0 hardware-based security layer a requirement on Windows 10 smartphones, PCs and tablets.

Microsoft is rolling out a change in minimum hardware requirements for Windows 10 PCs and mobile devices, and expects hardware makers to comply in order to make their devices more secure.

Starting Thursday, July 28, PC makers should include a hardware-based security feature called TPM (Trusted Platform Module) 2.0 in Windows 10 PCs, smartphones and tablets. The TPM 2.0 feature will be beneficial for users as it will do a better job of protecting sensitive information on a PC. A TPM 2.0 security layer—which can be in the form of a chip or firmware—can safeguard user data by managing and storing cryptographic keys in a trusted container.

MICROSOFT GIVEN 3 MONTHS TO FIX WINDOWS 10 SECURITY AND PRIVACY – France's privacy watchdog has declared that windows 10 is gobbling up too much data and snooping on users' browsing without their consent.
The National Data Protection Commission (CNIL) has given Microsoft 3 months to get its act together and to get compliant with the French Data Protection Act.   (DY - Still waiting???)*

That means that Microsoft has to stop collecting "excessive data" and tracking browsing by users without their consent. CNIL Director Isabelle Falque-Pierrotin is also demanding that Microsoft "take satisfactory measures to ensure the security and confidentiality of user data." WINDOWS 10'S BIG ANNIVERSARY UPDATE will hit phones the same time as PCs.

Microsoft recently announced the Windows 10 Anniversary Update would roll out on Tuesday, August 2. But it was unclear what this meant for mobile devices as the company's blog post seemed to be about PCs. Now, however, it looks like the official release date is for both PCs and mobile devices.

3 ALTERNATIVES IF YOU DON'T WANT TO ENTER A PASSWORD ON YOUR WINDOWS MACHINE – A reader who wants to remain anonymous doesn't want to type in his Windows password more than once or twice a day. By default, Windows requires you to prove that you're you every time you boot or just wake the computer out of sleep mode. There are good reasons for that. You don't want someone else reading your email or shopping with your Amazon account. But all that typing can get annoying, and if you only use your PC in a secure place, it may not be necessary. Here are three ways to avoid this repetitive typing. Go to this website for the complete article.

FORCED WINDOWS 10 UPGRADES – On May 12, Microsoft changed its policy on Win10 upgrades. The company now picks a date for your machine's migration to the new OS. Once that date is set, all users can seemingly do is wait for the upgrade to finish and then decide whether to roll back to Win7 or Win8.1.

On some Win10-upgrade prompts, Microsoft has provided an opt-out path. But the option is a link that could easily be missed if you're not looking for it. Moreover, there was no option to cancel the upgrade; the installation process started without explicit approval. Not surprisingly, Microsoft's heavy-handed push to upgrade Win7 and Win8.1 users to the newest Windows version has generated loud and public complaints, such as articles in PC World and Paul Thurrott.

It seems clear that Microsoft considers itself the IT administrator of consumer Windows machines. 10/14/16 It's true that millions of PCs are now running Windows 10. But Microsoft doesn't seem concerned that upgrading might break critical software and hardware that will never be upgraded to support Win10. Yes, the "Get Windows 10" app is supposed to check for compatibility, but it's far from perfect — as also is the OS roll-back system.

Like good administrators, Microsoft tests updates before pushing them out. But its thinking seems to be that an update is okay if it works on most PCs. Windows 10 is a heck of an update — one in which Microsoft isn't taking responsibility for any productivity and/or peripheral loss.

If you're still on Win7 or Win8.1, I strongly recommend taking back control of the Win10-upgrade process. Windows Secrets has suggested W10/14/16in10-blocking tools such as GWX Control Panel or Never10. We prefer GWX Control Panel because it can actually check and remove the local Win10-installer folder.

GWX Control Panel - Ultimate Outsider http://ultimateoutsider.com/downloads/
GWX Control Panel. This is a free tool that can remove and disable the 'Get Windows 10' notification area icon on Windows 7 and Windows 8.

This is a free tool that can remove and disable the 'Get Windows 10' notification area icon on Windows 7 and Windows 8. Recent versions can also disable 'Upgrade to Windows 10' behavior in the Windows Update control panel and do much more. See the user guide at the Ultimate Outsider blog. You can still download GWX Control Panel as a standalone executable if you don't like installers. Please see the "GWX Control Panel Release Notes and Version History" post at the blog for MD5 and SHA-1 checksums of all official releases.

If at some point you decide you do want Win10, the blockers are easily removed. I also suggest downloading the from the MS TechBench website. It's from Microsoft, but it has fewer issues than the Windows UWin10 installer update-based process.

WINDOWS 10 START MENU – TECHREPUBLIC http://tek.io/1qNiGo4 or http://www.techrepublic.com/article/windows-10-microsoft-unveils-new-look-for-the-start-menu/

The revamped Start Menu is due to be added to Windows 10 this summer, as part of a major update coined the 'Windows 10 Anniversary Edition'. Microsoft revealed the updated appearance in an early build of the OS, which it recently released to testers in the Windows 10 Insider program.

"The new look Start menu makes the 'All Apps' list visible by default on the left-hand side. In another new addition, a selection of the user's 'Most-used' apps are shown at the top of this permanently visible 'All Apps' list. Microsoft says the change should reduce the clicking and scrolling needed to access apps.

The Power, Settings and File Explorer icons are also always visible in the left rail of the Start menu and the 'Recently added' section will display three entries, instead of one. Any folders that users have added to the Start menu are now immediately accessible without having to click the hamburger icon."

Malwarebytes Anti-Ransomware 0.9.17.661 Download

http://www.majorgeeks.com/files/details/malwarebytes_anti_ransomware.html
Malwarebytes Anti-Ransomware uses advanced proactive technology that monitors what ransomware is doing and stops it cold before it touches your files. Ransomware is easy to understand but hard to beat. It infects the machine, encrypts all files and then demands payment to get the files back.

Ransomware works so well that most variants will even remove themselves when the damage is done, knowing you have the choice of either paying the ransomware author to get your files back or risk losing them forever.

With this app, it has no shot at encrypting. And it does not rely on signatures or heuristics, so it's light and completely compatible with your antivirus.

When running Malwarebytes Anti-Ransomware, you do not have to worry about getting infected by CryptoLocker, CryptoWall, or CTBLocker. Better yet, it can defeat new ransomware the moment it is released, proactively protecting you from ransomware that's never even been seen before.

Posted in Help For Your User Group
Computer Users Group of Redding is Using ZOOM for SIGs & Meetings.
Jane Quinn, SIG Leader, Beyond Basics http://cugr.apcug.org/

Web Helpful Tips-1 used Zoom conferencing for our March SIG. We connected with Hewie Poplock from Florida for his presentation. He is a member of APCUG's Speakers Bureau.

There are several advantages to using the free Zoom Video Conferencing tool. First, it has a plug-in for all our devices, Tablets, iPads, phones, laptops, etc. You can find them at the Google Play, or the Apple App store or directly at their site, https://www.zoom.us/download. And it's really simple to use. The plug-in will automatically install itself the first time you try to join or share your device screen for a Zoom meeting. When I tested it in our household, my husband, Mario, at first couldn't hear me from his iPad. Then he discovered and responded to "connect to audio using Internet connection" and that fixed it. The product is very intuitive. The toolbar appears and you have instantly all you need to view the meeting and control your participation.

ZoomScheduling a meeting can be done in several ways. You can send or be sent an eMail to join a meeting, or as a host you can schedule a date and time for those to join you. The free Zoom Conference version allows up to 50 invitees for a 40 minute session. When you join a meeting it is best if you chat (type your response or questions) to avoid feedback from devices. You can mute your audio and even disengage your video for your own privacy. This way you can enjoy watching the presentation from your office or home without disrupting it.

Once the plug in is installed, for all future meetings you will only need to sign in and enter the meeting number. Most folks just copy and paste that number into the login screen. You may also see Copy Link in the e-Invite (electronic invite) link. This copies to your clip board and all you need to do is open a new Browser window and Paste and Go. I have posted a YouTube series of videos on how to install and use this tool. It is on the Club's Blog site at the Build Digital Skills tab. Here you can play these and find out how simple it is.

Hewie also gave a presentation at their April 26 general meeting. He provided a link for this presentation so they could invite home-bound members to attend on line while he presented to their group. Jane let the Redding members know that if they couldn't attend the meeting, she would be happy to get them Redding Invite started using Zoom.
